Portfolio Update

May proved a volatile month for global fixed income and credit markets, shaped by Middle Eastern geopolitics, elevated energy prices, and uncertainty around inflation and monetary policy expectations. Risk assets including global equities pushed higher while credit spreads traded in a tight range.

The Trust's yield premium above benchmark remained the key contributing factor to outperformance over the month. The Trust's yield advantage remains predominantly attributable to non-financial corporate bonds and loans, alongside exposure to securitised sectors, domestic and offshore banks. Australian government bond yields fell over the month with the curve steepening as the front end led the rally. The RBA delivered a widely anticipated third consecutive 25 basis point hike at its 5 May meeting, returning the cash rate to 4.35%. During May, weaker labour market and softer inflation data saw markets wind back pricing for further near-term tightening with rate hike expectations falling from two further hikes to less than one by month end. The Trust's floating rate structure minimises the impact of interest rate volatility while rising base rates supports the income distributable to unitholders as coupons are reset at higher rates. At month end the Trust portfolio's running yield was 7.4%.

Domestic credit spreads were resilient throughout May with the iTraxx Australia CDS index narrowing slightly while trading in a relatively tight range over the month. As previously highlighted in the April monthly commentary, the key contributor to credit spread return over the month was the repayment at par of a loan from Star Entertainment which represents a positive result for shareholders. Elsewhere, credit spread contribution was relatively benign for performance.

The Manager took the opportunity to take part in a number of new deals during the month, lengthening the portfolio marginally by deploying a portion of the Trust's cash position. The Trust took part in the new 10-year deal from Qantas which offered an attractive spread for a sector that has faced some challenges with recent oil price volatility. The Trust secured a good allocation in the oversubscribed deal which tightened on issue, contributing to performance. The Trust also took part in a new Additional Tier 1 Hybrid from Barclays and a new RMBS deal from ANZ.

The Perpetual Loan Fund – held by the Trust – invested in a loan from Insignia during May. The first lien senior secured loan is rated Ba2 (BB equivalent) by Moody's reflecting Insignia's strong market position as the Australia's largest for-profit wealth platform and their resilient Funds Under Administration (FUA). CC Capital, a New York-based private investment firm, and One Investment Management, a global alternative investment manager, recently completed the 100% acquisition of Insignia in April 2026. The Manager believes that the loan offers an attractive yield premium for the level of liquidity and credit risk.

Perpetual's proprietary credit outlook score remained in negative territory, declining marginally led by softening valuation and macroeconomic indicators. The Trust maintains a liquid investment grade core portfolio (including cash) which accounted for 54.1% of the portfolio NAV at month end. The Trust's broad mandate ensures that the Portfolio can capture the liquidity premia offered by private credit while liquid public credit exposures provide portfolio ballast. The liquid core component strengthens the Trust portfolio's liquidity profile and gives the Manager optionality to take advantage of relative value opportunities as they arise.
